DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 2-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Admitted Prior art (APA) in view of Hughes, Kwoka, and Chang.

The APA multi-wire interconnect system for electrical units discussed in the background of the invention lack adapter for allowing the system to interconnect with different electrical units than the one for which the existing connector was designed. The APA also lacks a first set of flexible, elongated conductors which terminate in respective rigid conducting prongs engageable with the existing connector.

Hughes, Kwoka and Chang all disclosed electrical adapters for electrical interconnection systems. Each carries a first set of electrical conductors and a second set of electrical conductors wherein the number of the second set of conductors is the same as the number of the first set of conductors, wherein members of the first set exhibit an electro-mechanical plug-type profile for engagement with socket elements of the existing connector and wherein members of the second set exhibit an electro-mechanical socket-type profile for engagement with a second plug, wherein the existing connector and the second plug are incompatible and not mutually engageable, wherein the first set of electrical conductors includes a plurality of flexible, elongated conductors which terminate in respective rigid conducting prongs engageable with the existing connector.

Art Unit: 2839

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide an adapter with the above mentioned features for the APA interconnect system in view of the teachings of Hughes, Kwoka and Chang. The use of electrical adapters in connector systems is old and well known in the and would allow the APA multi-wire interconnect system to connect with different electrical units than the one for which the existing connector was designed. Other minor variations are deemed obvious design considerations (e.g., the various number and the selective arrangements of conductors in the connector housing).
